

Demolition planning

ABBRUCHPLANUNG

Demolishing buildings requires diverse regulations to be taken into account, which owners and investors in land with buildings are seldom aware of, although, as the clients, they are responsible for compliance. This best practice guide provides information about the main laws, administrative and technical regulations to be complied with to ensure proper planning, contract award and implementation. The planning work and costs involved are described in relation to the size and type of project. This document is intended to improve planning certainty and to make a contribution to proper change in use or continued use of abandoned industrial and business sites.
